BIO

Madison Galloway is an emerging voice in the Canadian music scene, hailing from small town Fergus, Ontario. Her signature bluesy roots-rock style, hinted by psychedelia, showcases Galloway's soulful voice, thundering guitar, and wailing harmonica; paired with her authentic stage presence, she's making a name for herself as a must-see act.

Galloway released her debut EP "Who Knows Where" (2015), followed by her first full-length album "Moon & Mercury" (2019), earning her a spot as a Blues & Roots Radio International Song Contest 2019 finalist. Now, her new single "Open Your Eyes" released August 2022 is seeing great online success - including placement on Spotify's curated Modern Blues Rock playlist. From band to solo, she's consistently turning heads with her high-energy show! With hundreds of performances under her belt, Galloway has played prominent festivals including Kitchener Blues Festival, Riverfest Elora, and Mariposa Folk Festival, and has shared the stage with renowned artists, 54-40, Ron Hawkins (Lowest of the Low), and Jack De Keyzer.
